Signal Lamp

TL826

Collection Name
VEGA COLLECTION

We may not know what or who is out there in the great expanse of space, but humankind has employed many means to try and uncover these unknowns. This pillar-like table lamp pays tribute to the signals released and listened for by astronomers which cross unfathomable distances bringing Earth tiny pieces of a giant puzzle. This matrix of signals is represented by repeating furrows which pulse sideways in a matched tempo creating a rich texture on the surface of this table lamp, the scores of which fall into contrasting highlights and shadows as the light is turned on.
